*The side notes indicate the decisions of the supreme court.

All amendments are shown by notes at the bottom of the page indicating the year in which they took effect. The amendments of 1792, "so far as relates to the choice of the members of the legislature and the executive officers of the state, county treasurer and recorder of deeds," took effect on February 1, 1793, and all others on the first Wednesday of June, 1793.

The amendments of 1850 took effect September 16, 1852; those of 1876, August 1, 1877, October 1, 1878, and the first Wednesday of June, 1879, as indicated in the foot notes; those of 1889, April 2, 1889; those of 1902 on March 26, 1903; and those of 1912 on November 20, 1912.

The numbering of the sections of Part II first appeared in the Revised Statutes of 1842. In 1889, when the tenth section of Part II was stricken out, all subsequent sections were moved forward, with the result of making much confusion in citations. In this copy the former numbering has been placed in parenthesis at the side of the present number.

PART FIRST

BILL OF RIGHTS.

ARTICLE 1ST. All men are born equally free and independent; therefore, all government of right originates from the people, is founded in consent, and instituted for the general good.

Equality of men;
origin and object
of government.
liii, 212. lxxv, 113.

[ART.] *2d. All men have certain natural, essential, and inherent rights, among which are the enjoying and defending life and liberty, acquiring, possessing, and protecting property, and, in a word, of seeking and obtaining happiness.

Natural rights.
liv, 117; 590.
lxv, 103. lxvii, 59.
lxxii, 95.
lxxiii, 33; 34.
lxxv, 31.
lxxvii, 581.

[ART.] 3d. When men enter into a state of society, they surrender up some of their natural rights to that society, in order to insure the protection of others; and, without such an equivalent, the surrender is void.

Society, its
and purposes.
liii, 9.
lxxi, 555.

[ART.] 4th. Among the natural rights, some are in their very nature unalienable, because no equivalent can be given or received for them. Of this kind are the rights of conscience.

Rights of conscience unalienable.
liii, 9. lix, 225.

[ART.] 5th. Every individual has a natural and unalienable right to worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience and reason; and no subject shall be hurt, molested, or restrained, in his person, liberty, or estate, for worshipping God in the manner and season most agreeable to the dictates of his own conscience, or for his religious profession, sentiments, or persuasion, provided he doth not disturb the public peace or disturb others in their religious worship.

Religious freedom
liii, 9. lviii, 240.
lix, 225. lxiv, 48.
lxxix, 381.
lxxvi, 420.

[ART.] 6th. As morality and piety, rightly grounded on evangelical principles, will give the best and greatest security to government, and will lay in the hearts of men the strongest obligations to due subjection, and as the knowledge of these is Public worship of the Deity to be encouraged.

liii, 9. lxvi, 230.
lxxv, 424; 562.
lxxvi, 408.

*First inserted in this and following articles of Bill of Rights in General Statutes, 1867.

most likely to be propagated through a society by the institution of the public worship of the Deity and of public instruction in morality and religion, therefore to promote those important purposes, the people of this state have a right to empower, and do hereby fully empower, the legislature to authorize, from time to time, the several towns, parishes, bodies corporate, or religious societies within this state to make adequate provision, at their own expense, for the support and maintenance of public Protestant teachers of piety, religion, and morality.

Right of electing religious teachers.
Sm., 1.
liii, 9; 138.
lvi, 508.
lxvi, 230.

Provided, notwithstanding, that the several towns, parishes, bodies corporate, or religious societies shall at all times have the exclusive right of electing their own public teachers and of contracting with them for their support and maintenance. And no person of any one particular religious sect or denomination shall be compelled to pay towards the support of the teacher or teachers of another persuasion, sect, or denomination.

Free toleration.
liii, 9.

And every denomination of Christians, demeaning themselves quietly and as good subjects of the state, shall be equally under the protection of the law; and no subordination of any one sect or denomination to another shall ever be established by law.

Existing contracts not affected.

And nothing herein shall be understood to affect any former contracts made for the support of the ministry; but all such contracts shall remain and be in the same state as if this constitution had not been made.

State sovereignty.
lxvi, 369.

[ART.] 7th. The people of this state have the sole and exclusive right of governing themselves as a free, sovereign, and independent state, and do, and forever hereafter shall, exercise and enjoy every power, jurisdiction, and right pertaining thereto which is not or may not hereafter be by them expressly delegated to the United States of America in congress assembled.

[ART.] 8th. All power residing originally in, and being derived from, the people, all the magistrates and officers of government are their substitutes and agents and at all times accountable to them.

Accountability of magistrates and officers. lxvi, 369. lxvii, 49.

[ART.] 9th. No office or place whatsoever in government shall be hereditary, the abilities and integrity requisite in all not being transmissible to posterity or relations.

No hereditary office or place.

[ART.] 10th. Government being instituted for the common benefit, protection, and security of the whole community, and not for the private interest or emolument of any one man, family, or class of men, therefore, whenever the ends of government are perverted and public liberty manifestly endangered and all other means of redress are ineffectual, the people may, and of right ought to, reform the old or establish a new government. The doctrine of nonresistance against arbitrary power and oppression is absurd, slavish, and destructive of the good and happiness of mankind.

Right of revolution. lii, 592. lxv, 113.

[ART.] 11th. All elections ought to be free; and every inhabitant of the state, having the proper qualifications, has equal right to elect and be elected into office; [but no person shall have the right to vote, or be eligible to office under the constitution of this state, who shall not be able to read the constitution in the English language, and to write; provided, however, that this provision shall not apply to any person prevented by a physical disability from complying with its requisitions, nor to any person who now has the right to vote, nor to any person who shall be sixty years of age or upwards on the first day of January A. D. 1904,]* [and provided further, that no person shall have the right to vote or be eligible to office under the constitution of this state who shall have been convicted of treason, bribery, or any wilful violation of the election laws

459. lv, 179.
lxiv, 442; 491.

[ART.] 12th. Every member of the community has a right to be protected by it in the enjoyment of his life, liberty, and property. He is, therefore, bound to contribute his share in the expense of such protection, and to yield his personal service, when necessary, or an equivalent. But no part of a man's property shall be taken from him or applied to public uses without his own consent or that of the representative body of the people. Nor are the inhabitants of this state controllable by any other laws than those to which they or their representative body have given their consent.

[ART.] 13th. No person who is conscientiously scrupulous about the lawfulness of bearing arms shall be compelled thereto, provided he will pay an equivalent.

[ART.] 14th. Every subject of this state is entitled to a certain remedy, by having recourse to the laws, for all injuries he may receive in his person, property, or character, to obtain right and justice freely, without being obliged to purchase it; completely and without any denial; promptly and without delay; conformably to the laws.

[ART.] 15th. No subject shall be held to answer for any crime or offense until the same is fully and plainly, substantially and formally, described to him, or be compelled to accuse or furnish evidence against himself. And every subject shall have a right to produce all proofs that may be favorable to himself, to meet the witnesses against him face to face, and to be fully heard in his defense by himself, and counsel. And no subject shall be arrested, imprisoned, despoiled, or deprived of his property, immunities, or privileges, put out of the protection of the law, exiled, or deprived of his life, liberty, or estate, but by the judgment of his peers or the law of the land.

[ART.] 16th. No subject shall be liable to be tried, after an acquittal, for the same crime or offense; nor shall the legislature make any law that shall subject any person to a capital punishment (excepting for the government of the army and navy, and the militia in actual service) without trial by jury.

[ART.] 17th. In criminal prosecutions, the trial of facts in the vicinity where they happened is so essential to the security of the life, liberty, and estate of the citizen, that no crime or offense ought to be tried in any other county than that in which it is committed, except in cases of general insurrection in any particular county, when it shall appear to the judges of the superior court that an impartial trial cannot be had in the county where the offense may be committed, and, upon their report, the [legislature]* shall think proper to direct the trial in the nearest county in which an impartial trial can be obtained.

[ART.] 18th. All penalties ought to be proportioned to the nature of the offense. No wise legislature will affix the same punishment to the crimes of theft, forgery, and the like, which they do to those of murder and treason. Where the same undistinguishing severity is exerted against all offenses, the people are led to forget the real distinction in the crimes themselves and to commit the most flagrant with as little compunction as they do† the lightest [offenses].‡ For the same reason, a multitude of sanguinary laws is both impolitic and unjust, the true design of all punishments being to reform, not to exterminate, mankind.

[ART.] 19th.* [Every subject hath a right to be secure from all unreasonable searches and seizures of his person, his houses, his papers, and all his possessions. Therefore, all warrants to search suspected places or arrest a person for examination or trial, in prosecutions for criminal matters, are contrary to this right, if the cause or foundation of them be not previously supported by oath or affirmation, and if the order, in a warrant to a civil officer, to make search in suspected places or to arrest one or more suspected persons or to seize their property, be not accompanied with a special designation of the persons or objects of search, arrest, or seizure; and no warrant ought to be issued but in cases and with the formalities prescribed by law.]

[ART.] 20th. In all controversies concerning property and in all suits between two or more persons, except in cases in which it has been heretofore otherwise used and practiced [and except in cases in which the value in controversy does not exceed one hundred dollars and title of real estate is not concerned]† the parties have a right to a trial by jury; and this method of procedure shall be held sacred, unless, in cases arising on the high seas and such as relates to mariners' wages, the legislature shall think it necessary hereafter to alter it.

[ART.] 21st. In order to reap the fullest advantage of the inestimable privilege of the trial by jury, great care ought to be taken that none but qualified persons should be appointed to serve; and such ought to [be]‡ fully compensated for their travel, time, and attendance.

[ART.] 22d. The liberty of the press is essential to the security of freedom in a state; it ought, therefore, to be inviolably preserved.

[ART.] 32^d. The people have a right, in an orderly and peaceable manner, to assemble and consult upon the common good, give instructions to their representatives, and to request of the legislative body, by way of petition or remonstrance, redress of the wrongs done them and of the grievances they suffer.

[ART.] 33^d. No magistrate or court of law shall demand excessive bail or sureties, impose excessive fines, or inflict cruel or unusual punishments.

[ART.] 34th. No person can in any case be subjected to law martial or to any pains or penalties by virtue of that law, except those employed in the army or navy, and except the militia in actual service, but by authority of the legislature.

[ART.] 35th. [It is essential to the preservation of the rights of every individual, his life, liberty, property, and character, that there be an impartial interpretation of the laws and administration of justice. It is the right of every citizen to be tried by judges as impartial as the lot of humanity will admit. It is, therefore, not only the best policy, but for the security of the rights of the people, that the judges of the supreme judicial court should hold their offices so long as they behave well, subject, however, to such limitations on account of age as may be provided by the constitution of the state, and that they should have honorable salaries, ascertained and established by standing laws.]*

[ART.] 36th. Economy being a most essential virtue in all states, especially in a young one, no pension shall be granted but in consideration of actual services; and such pensions ought to be granted with great caution by the legislature, and never for more than one year at a time.

[ART.] 37th. In the government of this state, the three essential powers thereof—to wit, the legislative, executive, and judicial—ought to be kept as separate from, and independent of, each other as the nature of a free government will admit or as is consistent with that chain of connection that binds the whole fabric of the constitution in one indissoluble bond of union and amity.

[ART.] 38th. A frequent recurrence to the fundamental principles of the constitution and a constant adherence to justice, moderation, temperance, industry, frugality, and all the social virtues, are indispensably necessary to preserve the blessings of liberty and good government. The people ought, therefore, to have a particular regard to all those principles in the choice of their officers and representatives; and they have a right to require of their law-givers and magistrates an exact and constant observance of them in the formation and execution of the laws necessary for the good administration of government.

Pardoning power.

[ART. 51 (52).] The power of pardoning offenses, except such as persons may be convicted of before the senate, by impeachment of the house shall be in the governor, by and with the advice of council; but no charter or pardon, granted by the governor, with advice of council, before conviction, shall avail the party pleading the same, notwithstanding any general or particular expressions contained therein, descriptive of the offense or offenses intended to be pardoned.

Militia officers, removal of.

[ART. 52 (53).] No officer, duly commissioned to command in the militia, shall be removed from his office but by the address of both houses to the governor or by fair trial in courtmartial pursuant to the laws of the state for the time being.

Staff and non-commissioned officers, by whom appointed.

[ART. 53 (54).] The commanding officers of the regiments shall appoint their adjutants and quartermasters; the brigadiers, their brigade-majors; the major-generals, their aids; the captains and subalterns, their non-commissioned officers.

Division of militia into brigades, regiments, and companies.

[ART. 54 (55).] The division of the militia into brigades, regiments, and companies, made in pursuance of the militia laws now in force, shall be considered as the proper division of the militia of this state, until the same shall be altered by some future law.

HISTORY OF THE CONSTITUTION

After the withdrawal of the royal governor, John Wentworth, in May, 1775, this province was governed, so far as there was any state government, by a convention, of which Matthew Thornton was president.

On the fifth day of January, 1776, a temporary constitution was adopted, which was the first written constitution adopted by any of the states now constituting the American Union. Under this constitution, Meshech Weare was unanimously elected president of the council and chairman of the committee of safety; and the state was prosperously governed for eight years.

In June, 1784, a new constitution, which had been approved by the people and established by the convention, October 31, 1783, took effect, and continued in force until 1793. In 1792, a new constitution was submitted to the people and adopted by them, and took effect in June, 1793. Most of its provisions were similar to those in the constitution of 1784, with several important amendments. This constitution remained unchanged until 1852.

The constitutional convention of 1850 proposed several important amendments, but they were all rejected by the people. At an adjourned meeting in 1851, the convention proposed three amendments, only one of which was adopted, the one removing the property qualification in the case of governor, senator, and representative. The governor, by his proclamation of September 16, 1852, gave notice that this amendment had been adopted.

In 1876, a new convention was called and holden, which proposed amendments changing the constitution in thirteen particulars, all of which, except two, were adopted by the people in March, 1877, as appeared by the proclamation of the governor of April 17, 1877. By legislative enactment, most of these amendments took effect on the first day of August, 1877, and the rest were to take effect at such times that the election in March, 1878, should be held under the old constitution, and the officers then elected should hold one year, till June, 1879, and that, in November, 1878, the first election should be held under the new constitution, and officers elected who should hold two years from June, 1879.

The constitutional convention of 1889 proposed seven amendments, five of which were adopted. The governor gave notice of their adoption by proclamation dated April 2, 1889.

The sense of the people on the question of holding a constitutional convention was taken in 1894 and again in 1896, in each instance with a negative result.

In 1900, a majority voted in favor of a convention, and the legislature called one to meet on the first Tuesday in December, 1902. This convention proposed ten amendments, four of which were adopted in March, 1903.

In 1910, the vote was in favor of a convention, which was called and held on the first Wednesday in June, 1912. It submitted twelve amendments, four of which were adopted in November, 1912.

In 1916, the vote was again for a convention. It was called to be held on the first Wednesday in June, 1918. After a session of three days, it adjourned, to reassemble at the call of a committee consisting of the president and one delegate from each county. It reassembled at the call of the committee on Tuesday, January 13, 1920. It proposed seven amendments, and adjourned to the call of the president. All the proposed amendments were rejected in November, 1920.

In January, 1921, the legislature appropriated funds for the expenses of the convention, and, on the call of the president, it met on Friday, January 28, 1921. It proposed four amendments, all of which were rejected in March, 1921.

In 1924, the vote was against calling a convention.

| James II, 1686-88 | Walter Barefoote, deputy-governor, 1685-86 |

4. Fourth Period.

This was the period of government under the dominion of New England. From 1686 to 1689, three years.

| Royal Executive | Provincial Executive |
|--|---|
| James II, 1686-88 (Interregnum) 1686-89 | Joseph Dudley, president, 1686-87 Sir Edmund Andros, governor, 1686-89 |

5. Fifth Period.

This was the second period of local self-government of New Hampshire towns. From 1689 to 1690, one year. William and Mary were king and queen of England and there was no executive over New Hampshire.

6. Sixth Period.

This was the period of the second union of New Hampshire with the Massachusetts Bay colony. From 1690 to 1692, two years. William and Mary were royal executives during this period and Simon Bradstreet was governor of Massachusetts Bay colony, including New Hampshire.

7. Seventh Period.

This was the period of the permanent provincial government. From 1692 to 1775, in all 83 years.

| Royal Executive | Provincial Executive |
|---------------------------|---|
| William and Mary, 1689-95 | John Usher, lieutenant-governor, 1692-97 |

Counties.—New Hampshire has 10 counties, 5 of which increased in population during the last decade, and 5 decreased. The largest percentage of decrease was in Carroll County—8 per cent. There have been no changes in county boundaries since 1910.

Density of population.—The total land area of the state in 1920 is 9,031 square miles and the average number of persons to the square mile is 49.1 (see Table 1); in 1910 and 1900 the averages were 47.7 and 45.6, respectively.

Minor civil divisions.—In New Hampshire the primary division of the county is the town or city, and in 1920 these number 224 and 11, respectively; but, in addition to the town or city, Carroll County has 1 location and Coos County has 3 locations, 10 grants, 7 townships, and 6 purchases, making the total number of primary divisions in the state 262. Besides these primary divisions, there are 2 secondary divisions, or incorporated villages which are not independent minor civil divisions, but form parts of the towns in which they are located (see Table 2).

Of the 262 primary divisions referred to above, 9 of those in Coos County have had no population returned at the last three censuses, and are not included in Table 2 in the minor civil divisions of the county.

Cities.—Manchester, the largest of the 11 cities of New Hampshire, has a population of 78,384 in 1920. Nashua, the next largest, has a population of 28,379 and Concord, the capital of the state, 22,167. (See Tables 3 and 4.)

The following summary shows, for each city having 10,000 inhabitants or more in 1920, the population at each census for which figures are available, together with the increase during each decade.

Urban and rural population.—The census Bureau defines urban population as that residing in cities and other incorporated places of 2,500 inhabitants or more. As New Hampshire has no incorporated villages of 2,500 or more and no city of less than 6,000 inhabitants, it has been considered advisable to include in the urban territory not only the population of the 11 cities of New Hampshire, but also that of all towns having over 2,500 inhabitants. This probably results in the “urban area” of New Hampshire including some population which in other states would be segregated as “rural,” but as this inclusion covers only 16 towns out of a total of 227, there is no reason to suppose that the proportion of urban population is greatly overstated.

Urban population in New Hampshire, being thus defined, the rural population, therefore, consists of the population outside of towns and cities having 2,500 inhabitants or more.

The following summary presents, for the last three censuses, the urban and rural population of the state distributed among cities and towns grouped according to specified limits of population. The classification is based upon the population of each place as it existed at each census. The percentage of the population of New Hampshire living in cities and towns of 2,500 or more at the three census periods was 63.1, 59.2 and 55, respectively, there being during each decade practically the same increase in the proportion of urban population.

NEW HAMPSHIRE STATE FLAG

The state flag was authorized by an act of the Legislature of 1909, New Hampshire prior to that never having had a state flag duly authorized and described by law.

The provisions of the act were that "the body or field of the flag shall be blue, and shall bear upon its center in suitable proportion and colors a representation of the state seal. The motto shall include the date 1784. Said seal shall be surrounded by a wreath of laurel leaves with nine stars interspersed. When used for military purposes said flag shall conform to the regulations of the United States."

In this act which was approved February 24, 1909, it was further provided:

"Said flag shall be displayed upon the State House whenever the legislature is in session, and during meetings of the Governor and Council when expedient, and upon such other occasions as the Governor may designate."

The inscription upon the field of blue, together with the wreath surrounding it, is laid on in gilt. A gold fringe surrounds the body of the flag, and either a yellow silk or gold cord is used to attach it to the staff.

PROVISIONS ACTUALLY IN FORCE

[With Annotations]

PREAMBLEOrigin and Purpose of Constitution

(1) We, the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America. Preamble.

ARTICLE IThe Legislative Function*VESTED IN CONGRESS

(2) All legislative powers herein granted shall be vested in a Congress of the United States, which shall consist of a Senate and House of Representatives. I: 1.

THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

(3) The House of Representatives shall be composed of members chosen every second year by the people of the several States; and the electors in each State shall have the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the State legislature. I: 2, 1.

(4) No person shall be a Representative who shall not have attained to the age of twenty-five years, and been seven years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that State in which he shall be chosen. I: 2, 2.

(5) Representatives shall be apportioned among the several States according to their respective numbers, counting the whole number of persons in each State, excluding Indians not taxed. But when the right to vote at any election for the choice of electors for President and Vice President of the United States, Representatives in Congress, the executive and judicial officers of a State, or the members of the legislature thereof, is denied to any of the male inhabitants of such State, being twenty-one years of age, and citizens of the United States, or in any way abridged, except for participation in rebellion or other crime, the basis of representation therein shall be reduced in the proportion which the number of such male citizens shall bear to the whole number of male citizens twenty-one years of age in such State.*

Am. 14, 2.

(6) The actual enumeration shall be made^a within every^b term of ten years, in such manner as the Congress of the United States^c shall by law direct. The number of Representatives shall not exceed one for every thirty thousand, but each State shall have at least one Representative^d.

I: 2, 3.

(7) When vacancies happen in the representation from any State, the executive authority thereof shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies.

I: 2, 4.

(8) The House of Representatives shall choose their Speaker and other officers and shall have the sole power of impeachment.

I: 2, 5.

THE SENATE

(9) The Senate of the United States shall be composed of two Senators from each State, elected by the people thereof, for six years; and each Senator shall have one vote. The electors

Par. 5. This 2nd section of the 14th amendment, adopted in 1868, supplanted the original first portion of clause 3, section 2, article I, as follows:

"Representatives and direct taxes shall be apportioned among the several States which may be included within this Union according to their respective numbers, which shall be determined by adding to the whole number of free persons, including those bound to service for a term of years, and excluding Indians not taxed, three-fifths of all other persons."

Par. 6. Corrections here due to lapse of time are:

a. Eliminating as obsolete, "within three years after the first meeting of the Congress of the United States, and";

b. Eliminating similarly, "subsequent";

c. Substituting "the Congress of the United States" for its pronoun, "they";

d. Eliminating as obsolete, "and, until such enumeration shall be made, the State of New Hampshire shall be entitled to choose three, Massachusetts eight, Rhode Island and Providence Plantations one, Connecticut five, New York six, New Jersey four, Pennsylvania eight, Delaware one, Maryland six, Virginia ten, North Carolina five, South Carolina five, and Georgia three."

in each State shall have the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the State legislatures.*

Am. 17, 1.

(10) ^aThey shall be divided as equally as may be into three classes^b so that one-third may be chosen every second year.

I: 3, 2.

(11) When vacancies happen in the representation of any State in the Senate, the executive authority of such State shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies; provided, that the legislature of any State may empower the executive thereof to make temporary appointments until the people fill the vacancies by election as the legislature may direct.*

Am. 17, 2.

(12) No person shall be a Senator who shall not have attained to the age of thirty years, and been nine years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that State for which he shall be chosen. I: 3, 3.

(13) The Vice President of the United States shall be President of the Senate, but shall have no vote, unless they be equally divided.

I: 3, 4.

(14) The Senate shall choose their other officers, and also a President pro tempore, in the absence of the Vice President, or when he shall exercise the office of President of the United States.

I: 3, 5.

Par. 9. This provision for the popular election of Senators supplanted in 1913 the original provision for Senators chosen by the legislatures which provision was:

"Sec. 3. (1) The Senate of the United States shall be composed of two Senators from each State, chosen by the legislature thereof for six years; and each Senator shall have one vote."

Par. 10. Matters eliminated here pertained to the original classification of Senators and became irrelevant respectively in 1789 and 1795, to wit:

a "(2) Immediately after they shall be assembled in consequence of the first election," b "The seats of the Senators of the first class shall be vacated at the expiration of the second year, of the second class at the expiration of the fourth year, and of the third class at the expiration of the sixth year."

Par. 11. This provision supplanted in 1913 the original one for the filling of senatorial vacancies. The original provision was the concluding portion of clause 2 and was:

"and if vacancies happen, by resignation or otherwise, during the recess of the legislature of any State the executive thereof may make temporary

(15) The Senate shall have the sole power to try all impeachments. When sitting for that purpose they shall be on oath or affirmation. When the President of the United States is tried, the Chief Justice shall preside and no person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two-thirds of the members present. I: 3, 6.

(16) Judgment in cases of impeachment shall not extend further than to removal from office, and disqualification to hold and enjoy any office of honor, trust or profit under the United States; but the party convicted shall nevertheless be liable and subject to indictment, trial, judgment and punishment, according to law. I: 3, 7.

THE CONGRESSIONAL BODY

(17) The times, places and manner of holding elections for Senators and Representatives shall be prescribed in each State by the legislature thereof, but the Congress may at any time by law make or alter such regulations.* I: 4, 1.

(18) The Congress shall assemble at least once in every year, and such meeting shall be on the first Monday in December, unless they shall by law appoint a different day. I: 4, 2.

(19) Each House shall be the judge of the elections, returns and qualifications of its own members, and a majority of each shall constitute a quorum to do business; but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and may be authorized to compel the attendance of absent members, in such manner and under such penalties as each House may provide. I: 5, 1.

appointments until the next meeting of the legislature, which shall then fill such vacancies."

The third and final section of the 17th amendment protected the senators in office at the time of the adoption of the amendment in 1913; but it became obsolete when the terms of the last of such Senators expired in 1919. This third section was:

"Sec. 3. This amendment shall not be so construed as to affect the election or term of any Senator chosen before it becomes valid as part of the Constitution."

Par. 17. The final phrase of this clause also became inapplicable when the amendment for the election of Senators by the people, instead of by legislatures, was adopted in 1913, to wit:

"except as to the places of choosing Senators."

(20) Each House may determine the rules of its proceedings, punish its members for disorderly behavior, and, with the concurrence of two-thirds, expel a member. I: 5, 2.

(21) Each House shall keep a journal of its proceedings, and from time to time publish the same, excepting such parts as may in their judgment require secrecy; and the yeas and nays of the members of either House on any question shall, at the desire of one-fifth of those present, be entered on the journal. I: 5, 3.

(22) Neither House, during the session of Congress, shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days, nor to any other place than that in which the two Houses shall be sitting. I: 5, 4.

(23) The Senators and Representatives shall receive a compensation for their services, to be ascertained by law, and paid out of the treasury of the United States. They shall in all cases, except treason, felony and breach of the peace be privileged from arrest during their attendance at the sessions of their respective Houses, and in going to and returning from the same; and for any speech or debate in either House they shall not be questioned in any other place. I: 6, 1.

(24) No Senator or Representative shall, during the time for which he was elected, be appointed to any civil office under the authority of the United States, which shall have been created, or the emoluments whereof shall have been increased, during such time; and no person holding any office under the United States shall be a member of either House during his continuance in office. I: 6, 2.

THE PROCESS OF LEGISLATION

(25) All bills for raising revenue shall originate in the House of Representatives, but the Senate may propose or concur with amendments, as on other bills. I: 7, 1.

(26) Every bill which shall have passed the House of Representatives and the Senate, shall, before it become a law, be presented to the President of the United States; if he approve he shall sign it, but if not he shall return it, with his objections, to that House in which it shall have originated, who shall enter the objections at large on their journal, and proceed to reconsider it. If after such reconsideration two-thirds of that House shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other House, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered, and, if approved by two-thirds of that House, it shall become a law. But in all such cases the votes of both Houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for and against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each House, respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the President within ten days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law, in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the Congress by their adjournment prevent its return, in which case it shall not be a law.

I: 7, 2.

(27) Every order, resolution or vote to which the concurrence of the Senate and House of Representatives may be necessary (except on a question of adjournment) shall be presented to the President of the United States, and, before the same shall take effect, shall be approved by him, or, being disapproved by him, shall be repassed by two-thirds of the Senate and House of Representatives, according to the rules and limitations prescribed in the case of a bill.

I: 7, 3.

THE POWERS OF CONGRESS

(28) The Congress shall have power: I: 8, general.

(29) To lay and collect taxes, duties, imposts and excises, to pay the debts and provide for the common defense and general welfare of the United States; but all duties, imposts and excises shall be uniform throughout the United States; I: 8, 1.

(30) To borrow money on the credit of the United States; I: 8, 2.

(31) To regulate commerce with foreign nations, and among the several States, and with the Indian tribes; I: 8, 3.

(32) To establish an uniform rule of naturalization, and uniform laws on the subject of bankruptcies throughout the United States;

I: 8, 4.

- (33) To coin money, regulate the value thereof and of foreign coin, and fix the standard of weights and measures;
I: *8, 5.
- (34) To provide for the punishment of counterfeiting the securities and current coin of the United States; I: 8, 6.
- (35) To establish post offices and post roads; I: 8, 7.
- (36) To promote the progress of science and useful arts, by securing for limited times to authors and inventors the exclusive right to their respective writings and discoveries;
I: 8, 8.
- (37) To constitute tribunals inferior to the Supreme Court; I: 8, 9.
- (38) To define and punish piracies and felonies committed on the high seas, and offenses against the law of nations;
I: 8, 10.
- (39) To declare war, grant letters of marque and reprisal, and make rules concerning captures on land and water;
I: 8, 11.
- (40) To raise and support armies; but no appropriation of money to that use shall be for a longer term than two years;
I: 8, 12.
- (41) To provide and maintain a navy; I: 8, 13.
- (42) To make rules for the government and regulation of the land and naval forces; I: 8, 14.
- (43) To provide for calling forth the militia to execute the laws of the Union, suppress insurrections and repel invasions;
I: 8, 15.
- (44) To provide for organizing, arming and disciplining the militia, and for governing such part of them as may be employed in the service of the United States; reserving to the States, respectively, the appointment of the officers and the authority of training the militia according to the discipline prescribed by Congress;
I: 8, 16.

(45) To exercise exclusive legislation, in all cases whatsoever, over such district (not exceeding ten miles square) as may, by cession of particular States and the acceptance of Congress, become the seat of the Government of the United States, and to exercise like authority over all places purchased by the consent of the legislature of the State in which the same shall be, for the erection of forts, magazines, arsenals, dock yards and other needful buildings; and— I: 8, 17.

(46) To make all laws which shall be necessary and proper for carrying into execution the foregoing powers, and all other powers vested by this Constitution in the Government of the United States, or in any department or officer thereof.*

I: 8, 18.

FEDERAL RESTRICTIONS

(47) Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.* Am. 1.

(48) No soldier shall, in time of peace, be quartered in any house without the consent of the owner; nor in time of war, but in a manner to be prescribed by law.* Am. 3.

Par. 46. This general enforcement clause of the Constitution was undoubtedly intended to confer upon Congress full authority for carrying into effect all governmental purposes indicated in the Constitution; and so it has been uniformly construed by Chief-Justice Marshall and his associates and successors in the Supreme Court. Hence the following little enforcement clauses are regarded here only as superfluous matter, and their proper place appears to be at the end of this note, to wit:

Am. 13, Sec. 2. "Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation."

Am. 14, Sec. 5. "The Congress shall have power to enforce, by appropriate legislation, the provisions of this article."

Am. 15, Sec. 2. "The Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation."

Am. 19, Sec. 2. "Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation."

Par. 47. The general powers of Congress having been enumerated, it seems highly appropriate that the list of "Federal Restrictions" should be headed with this 1st amendment, and thus does the amendment take the place of the original, obsolete and repealed guaranty of the African slave trade, to wit:

"Sec. 9. (1) The migration or importation of such persons as any of the States now existing shall think proper to admit shall not be prohibited by the Congress prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and eight, but a tax or duty may be imposed on such importation, not exceeding ten dollars for each person."

(49) The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated; and no warrants shall issue, but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched, and the persons or things to be seized.*

Am. 4.

(50) The privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended, unless when, in cases of rebellion or invasion, the public safety may require it (I: 9, 2); nor shall any person be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use without just compensation.*

Am. 5.

(51) No bill of attainder or ex post facto law shall be passed.

I: 9, 3.

(52) No capitation or other direct tax shall be laid, unless in proportion to the census or enumeration hereinbefore directed to be taken (I: 9, 4); but the Congress shall have power to lay and collect taxes on incomes, from whatever source derived, without apportionment among the several States, and without regard to any census or enumeration.

Am. 16.

(53) No tax or duty shall be laid on articles exported from any state.

I: 9, 5.

(54) No preference shall be given by any regulation of commerce or revenue to the ports of one state over those of another; nor shall vessels bound to or from one State be obliged to enter, clear or pay duties in another.

I: 9, 6.

(55) No money shall be drawn from the treasury but in

Par. 48, 49. The 3rd and 4th amendments follow in order and spirit the 1st amendment.

Par. 50. The privilege of the writ of habeas corpus is here recited in its regular order and is followed by the final portion of the 5th amendment. The former portion of this amendment is a judicial limitation and so appears as Par 82; but the final portion, with its guaranties of life, liberty and property, imposes restrictions upon the Government as a whole and belongs in this subdivision. In separating thus the two portions of the 5th amendment, the words, "shall any person," are brought down from the former portion to the final portion.

Par. 52. The original prohibition against the levy of direct taxes otherwise than in proportion to the census was vitally qualified by the adoption of the 16th amendment, respecting income taxes, in 1913; and the amendment here follows the original prohibition. The conjunction "but" indicates the natural relation of the old and new provisions.

consequence of appropriations made by law, and a regular statement and account of the receipts and expenditures of all public money shall be published from time to time. I: 9, 7.

(56) No title of nobility shall be granted by the United States.* I: 9, 8.

INHIBITIONS ON THE STATES

(57) No State shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States, nor shall any State deprive any person of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law, nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws.*

Am. 14, 1.

(58) No State shall enter into any treaty, alliance or confederation; grant letters of marque or reprisal; coin money; emit bills of credit; make anything but gold and silver coin a tender in payment of debts; pass any bill of attainder, ex post facto law, or law impairing the obligation of contracts, or grant any title of nobility. I: 10, 1.

(59) No State shall, without the consent of the Congress, lay any imposts or duties on imports or exports, except what may be absolutely necessary for executing its inspection laws; and the net produce of all duties and imposts, laid by any State on imports or exports, shall be for the use of the treasury of the United States; and all such laws shall be subject to the revision and control of the Congress. I: 10, 2.

(60) No State shall, without the consent of Congress, lay any duty of tonnage, keep troops or ships of war in time of peace, enter into any agreement or compact with another State, or with a foreign power, or engage in war, unless actually invaded, or in such imminent danger as will not admit of delay. I: 10, 3.

Par. 56. This prohibition of titles of nobility has been followed textually by the rule that federal office-holders should not accept favors from foreign governments without the consent of Congress. This rule, however, imposes no limitation upon Congress but is strictly a burden upon office-holders. Accordingly, it is put with other similar burdens as a concluding portion of Par. 101.

Par. 57. This concluding portion of the 1st section of the 14th amendment puts upon the States a limitation corresponding to that which is put upon the Federal Government by the final portion of the 5th amendment in Par. 50 preceding. The former portion of this section is the definition of citizenship appearing as Par. 88.

(61) But a well regulated militia being necessary to the security of a free state, the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed.* Am. 2.

ARTICLE II

The Executive Function

CHOOSING A PRESIDENT

(62) The executive power shall be vested in a President of the United States of America. He shall hold his office during the term of four years, and, together with the Vice President chosen for the same term, be elected as follows: II: 1, 1.

(63) Each State shall appoint, in such manner as the legislature thereof may direct, a number of electors, equal to the whole number of Senators and Representatives to which the State may be entitled in the Congress; but no Senator or Representative, or person holding an office of trust or profit under the United States, shall be appointed an elector. II: 1, 2.

(64) The electors shall meet in their respective States, and vote by ballot for President and Vice President, one of whom, at least, shall not be an inhabitant of the same state with themselves; they shall name in their ballots the person voted for as President, and in distinct ballots the person voted for as Vice President; and they shall make distinct lists of all persons voted for as President, and of all persons voted for as Vice President, and of the number of votes for each, which lists they shall sign and certify, and transmit sealed to the seat of the Government of the United States, directed to the President of the Senate; the President of the Senate shall,

Par. 61. This 2nd amendment is argumentative and its motive is not wholly obvious. It recognizes that there is to be a militia, as indicated in Pars. 43 and 44, and it implies that the inhibition in Par. 60 against the keeping of troops by a State in time of peace was not intended to apply to the militia or to the people as incidental thereto. So the conjunction "But" hangs the matters together in what seems to be the proper way.

in the presence of the Senate and House of Representatives, open all the certificates, and the votes shall then be counted.*

Am. 12, 1.

(65) The person having the greatest number of votes for President shall be the President, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed; and if no person have such majority, then from the persons having the highest numbers, not exceeding three, on the list of those voted for as President, the House of Representatives shall choose immediately, by ballot, the President. But in choosing the President, the votes shall be taken by States, the representation from each State having one vote; a quorum for this purpose shall consist of a member or members from two-thirds of the States, and a majority of all the States shall be necessary to a choice. And if the House of Representatives shall not choose a President, whenever the right of choice shall devolve upon them, before the fourth day of March next following, then the Vice President shall act as President, as in the case of the death or other constitutional disability of the President.* Am. 12, 1.

(66) The person having the greatest number of votes as Vice President shall be the Vice President, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed; and if no person have a majority, then from the two highest numbers on the list, the Senate shall choose the Vice President; a quorum for the purpose shall consist of two-thirds of the whole number of Senators, and a majority of the whole number shall be necessary to a choice.* Am. 12, 2.

Pars. 64, 65 and 66. These paragraphs constitute what are usually printed as the first and second sections of the 12th amendment. They supplant the original provision for the election of President and Vice President, to wit:

"The electors shall meet in their respective States and vote by ballot for two persons, of whom one at least shall not be an inhabitant of the same State with themselves. And they shall make a list of all persons voted for, and of the number of votes for each; which list they shall sign and certify, and transmit sealed to the seat of the Government of the United States, directed to the President of the Senate. The President of the Senate shall, in the presence of the Senate and House of Representatives, open all the certificates, and the votes shall then be counted. The person having the greatest number of votes shall be the President, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed; and if there be more than one who have such majority, and have an equal number of votes, then the House of Representatives shall immediately choose, by ballot, one of them for President; and if no person have a majority, then, from the five highest on the list, the said House shall, in like manner, choose the President. But in choosing the President the votes shall be taken by States, the representation

(67) The Congress may determine the time of choosing the electors, and the day on which they shall give their votes, which day shall be the same throughout the United States. II: 1, 3.

(68) No person except a natural born citizen* shall be eligible to the office of President; neither shall any person be eligible to that office who shall not have attained to the age of thirty-five years, and been fourteen years a resident within the United States. II: 1, 4.

(69) And no person constitutionally ineligible to the office of President shall be eligible to that of Vice President of the United States.* Am. 12, 3.

(70) In case of the removal of the President from office, or of his death, resignation, or inability to discharge the powers and duties of the said office, the same shall devolve on the Vice President, and the Congress may by law provide for the case of removal, death, resignation or inability, both of the President and Vice President, declaring what officer shall then act as President, and such officer shall act accordingly until the disability be removed or a President shall be elected. II: 1, 5.

(71) The President shall, at stated times, receive for his services a compensation, which shall neither be increased nor diminished during the period for which he shall have been elected, and he shall not receive within that period any other emolument from the United States or any of them. II: 1, 6.

(72) Before he enter on the execution of his office, he shall take the following oath or affirmation:

for each State having one vote; a quorum for this purpose shall consist of a member or members from two-thirds of the States, and a majority of all the States shall be necessary to a choice. In every case, after the choice of the President, the person having the greatest number of votes of the electors shall be the Vice President. But if there should remain two or more who have equal votes, the Senate shall choose from them, by ballot, the Vice President." II: 1, 2. (part)

Par. 68. From this paragraph there are eliminated as obsolete the words: "or a citizen of the United States at the time of the adoption of this Constitution."

Par. 69. The framers of the Constitution neglected to specify any qualifications for the Vice President, and the omission was cured with the final clause of the 12th amendment following the provision as to the election of the Vice President. The clause, however, comes here more logically following the provision for the qualifications for President; and in this latter relation the introductory "But" is naturally changed to "And".

"I do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will faithfully execute the office of President of the United States, and will, to the best of my ability, preserve, protect, and defend the Constitution of the United States."

II: 1, 7.

POWERS OF THE PRESIDENT

(73) The President^a shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed. He^b shall commission all the officers of the United States (II: 3); he^c shall be commander-in-chief of the army and navy of the United States, and of the militia of the several States when called into the actual service of the United States; he may require the opinion in writing of the principal officer in each of the executive departments, upon any subject relating to the duties of their respective offices; and he shall have power to grant reprieves and pardons for offenses against the United States, except in cases of impeachment. II: 2, 1.

(74) He shall nominate, and by and with the advice and consent of the Senate shall appoint ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls, judges of the Supreme Court, and all other officers of the United States, whose appointments are not herein otherwise provided for and which shall be established by law. But the Congress may, by law, vest the appointment of such inferior officers as they think proper in the President alone, in the courts of law, or in the heads of departments (II: 2, 2); and^d the President shall have power to fill up all vacancies that may happen during the recess of the Senate, by granting commissions which shall expire at the end of their next session. II: 2, 3.

(75) He shall receive ambassadors and other public ministers (II: 3), and^e shall have power, by and with the advice

Pars. 73, 74, 75, 76. The four paragraphs that pertain to the powers of the President have not been affected by time or amendment, but they are susceptible of greater emphasis and clarity through a few changes in arrangement, as shown. In making such changes the following verbal corrections become necessary or desirable:

- a. "The President" for "he";
- b. "He" for "and";
- c. "he" for "The President";
- d. "and" inserted;
- e. "and" for "he";

and consent of the Senate to make treaties, provided two-thirds of the Senators present concur.^f

II: 2, 2.

(76) He shall from time to time give to the Congress information of the state of the Union, and recommend to their consideration such measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient. He may, on extraordinary occasions, convene both Houses, or either of them; and, in case of disagreement between them with respect to the time of adjournment, he may adjourn them to such time as he shall think proper. II: 3.

THE LIABILITY OF IMPEACHMENT

(77) The President, Vice President, and all civil officers of the United States, shall be removed from office on impeachment for, and conviction of, treason, bribery, or other high crimes and misdemeanors.

II: 4.

ARTICLE III

The Judicial Function

THE SUPREME AND SUPERIOR COURTS

(78) The judicial power of the United States shall be vested in one Supreme Court, and in such inferior courts as the Congress may from time to time ordain and establish. The judges, both of the supreme and inferior courts, shall hold their offices during good behavior; and shall, at stated times, receive for their services a compensation, which shall not be diminished during their continuance in office.

III: 1.

THE JUDICIAL POWER

(79) The judicial power shall extend to all cases in law and equity arising under this Constitution, the laws of the United States, and treaties made, or which shall be made, under their authority; to all cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls; to all cases of admiralty and maritime jurisdiction; to controversies to which the United States shall be a party; to controversies between two or more States,

f. "and" omitted.

between a State and citizens of another State, between citizens of different States, between citizens of the same State claiming lands under grants of different States, and between a State, or the citizens thereof, and foreign states, citizens or subjects.

III: 2, 1.

(80) But the judicial power of the United States shall not be construed to extend to any suit in law or equity, commenced or prosecuted against one of the United States by citizens of another State, or by citizens or subjects of any foreign state.*

Am. 11.

(81) In all cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls, and those in which a State shall be a party, the Supreme Court shall have original jurisdiction. In all the other cases, before mentioned, the Supreme Court shall have appellate jurisdiction, both as to law and fact, with such exceptions and under such regulations as the Congress shall make.

III: 2, 2.

JUDICIAL LIMITATIONS

(82) No person shall be held to answer for a capital, or otherwise infamous crime, unless on a presentment or indictment of a grand jury, except in cases arising in the land or naval forces, or in the militia, when in actual service, in time of war or public danger; nor shall any person be subject, for the same offense, to be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb; nor shall be compelled, in any criminal case, to be a witness against himself.*

Am. 5.

(83) In all criminal prosecutions, the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial, by an impartial jury of the State and district wherein the crime shall have been committed, which district shall have been previously ascertained by law, and to be informed of the nature and cause of the

Par. 80. The 11th amendment adopted in 1798, made an exception in behalf of the States to the jurisdiction of the Federal courts as originally provided, and the conjunction "But" indicates the relation of the two provisions.

Par. 82. This is the former portion of the 5th amendment, previously referred to in connection with Par. 50, and like the three paragraphs here following (Pars. 83, 84, and 85) it puts limitations upon the procedure and practice of the Federal judiciary. Excepting for a part of paragraph 83, they are all from the early amendments.

accusation; to be confronted with the witnesses against him; to have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor; and to have the assistance of counsel for his defense (Am. 6); but when the crime not committed within any State, the trial shall be at such place or places as the Congress may by law have directed.* III: 2, 3.

(84) In suits at common law where the value in controversy shall exceed twenty dollars, the right of trial by jury shall be preserved; and no fact, tried by a jury, shall be otherwise re-examined in any court of the United States, than according to the rules of the common law.* Am. 7.

(85) Excessive bail shall not be required, nor excessive fines imposed, nor cruel and unusual punishments inflicted.* Am. 8.

THE CRIME OF TREASON

(86) Treason against the United States shall consist only in levying war against them, or in adhering to their enemies, giving them aid and comfort. No person shall be convicted of treason unless on the testimony of two witnesses to the same overt act, or on confession in open court. III: 3, 1.

(87) The Congress shall have power to declare the punishment of treason, but no attainder of treason shall work corruption of blood, or forfeiture, except during the life of the person attained. III: 3, 2.

Par. 83. The 6th amendment in its assertion of the right of trial by jury goes much farther and is more particular than the original clause 3 of section 2, article III, which it mostly supplants. The latter portion, however, of the original clause, pertaining to crimes not committed within any State, is not so supplanted and is therefore regarded as an annex above to the 6th amendment, the words, "the crime," for grammatical clearness being brought down from the preceding text. The original provision supplanted is as follows:

"(3) The trial of all crimes, except in cases of impeachment, shall be by jury; and such trial shall be held in the State where the said crimes shall have been committed";

Pars. 84, 85. See note to Par. 82.

ARTICLE IV

Political Relations

INDIVIDUAL RIGHTS AND LIABILITIES

(88) All persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States, and of the State wherein they reside.* Am. 14, 1.

(89) The citizens of each State shall be entitled to all privileges and immunities of citizens in the several States.

IV: 2, 1.

(90) The right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any State on account of race, color, or previous condition of servitude (Am. 15, 1); nor on account of sex.* Am. 19, 1.

(91) Neither slavery nor involuntary servitude, except as a punishment for crime, whereof the party shall have been duly convicted, shall exist within the United States or any place subject to their jurisdiction.* Am. 13, 1.

(92) A person charged in any State with treason, felony or other crime, who shall flee from justice and be found in another State, shall, on demand of the executive authority of the State from which he fled, be delivered up, to be removed to the State having jurisdiction of the crime.

IV: 2, 2.

Par. 88. This definition of citizenship is the introductory first half of the 1st section of the 14th amendment. The other half appears as Par. 57.

Par. 90. The two suffrage amendments excepting their concluding designations of citizens enfranchised, are identical in language, and this language is covered by one statement and the conjunction "nor". The phraseology that would otherwise be duplicated is:

"The right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any State—"

Each of these suffrage amendments, moreover, had a little enforcement clause, for which no need has ever been apparent and in respect to which notation is made in connection with Par. 46.

Par. 91. This abolition amendment had also a little enforcement clause, to which reference is also made in connection with Par. 46.

This amendment, adopted in 1865, further repealed by implication the original provision for the recovery of fugitive slaves, to wit:

"(3) No person held to service or labor in one State, under the laws thereof, escaping into another, shall, in consequence of any law or regulation therein, be discharged from such service or labor, but shall be delivered up on claim of the party to whom such service or labor may be due".

STATES AND TERRITORIES

(93) The United States shall guarantee to every State in this Union a republican form of government, and shall protect each of them against invasion; and, on application of the legislature, or of the executive (when the legislature cannot be convened), against domestic violence.* IV: 4.

(94) Full faith and credit shall be given in each State to the public acts, records and judicial proceedings of every other State. And the Congress may, by general laws, prescribe the manner in which such acts, records and proceedings shall be proved, and the effect thereof.* IV: 1.

(95) New States may be admitted by the Congress into this Union; but no new State shall be formed or erected within the jurisdiction of any other State, nor any State be formed by the junction of two or more States, or parts of States, without the consent of the legislatures of the States concerned, as well as of the Congress.* IV: 3, 1.

(96) The Congress shall have power to dispose of and make all needful rules and regulations respecting the territory or other property belonging to the United States.* IV: 3, 2.

POLICE REGULATIONS

(97) The manufacture, sale or transportation of intoxicating liquors within, the importation thereof into, or the exportation thereof from the United States and all territory subject to the jurisdiction thereof for beverage purposes is hereby prohibited.* Am. 18, 1.

Pars. 93, 94, 95, 96. These paragraphs are parts, quite differently arranged, of the original Article IV, and they are here assembled reasonably under their suitable head of "States and Territories."

Par. 96 had a further provision the application of which was to unoccupied lands within the original territory of the United States. It very soon lost all its effect, if it ever had any. It was as follows:

"and nothing in this Constitution shall be so construed as to prejudice any claims of the United States or of any particular State".

Par. 97. The prohibition amendment had originally an introductory phrase that was material from January 16, 1919, to the same date in 1920, but has since been obsolete, to wit:

"After one year from the ratification of this article—"

(98) The Congress and the several States shall have concurrent power to enforce this prohibition by appropriate legislation.*

Am. 18, 2.

ARTICLE V

Modes Of Amendment

(99) The Congress, whenever two-thirds of both Houses shall deem it necessary, shall propose amendments to this Constitution, or, on the application of the legislatures of two-thirds of the several States, shall call a convention for proposing amendments, which in either case, shall be valid to all intents and purposes, as part of this Constitution, when ratified by the legislatures of three-fourths of the several States, or by conventions in three-fourths thereof, as the one or the other mode of ratification may be proposed by the Congress; provided* that no State, without its consent, shall be deprived of its equal suffrage in the Senate.

V.

Par. 98. This clause differs from the other little enforcement clauses in that it confers power upon the States as well as upon Congress, and observations, therefore, in connection with Par. 46 do not here apply.

In this clause the word "prohibition" is used in place of the original word "article", which would be confusing when applied to an amendment that is itself treated as part of an article of the Constitution.

This prohibition amendment was submitted by Congress December 18, 1917, and it was ratified, as above, after a period of not quite thirteen months. The third and final section of this amendment is therefore not merely obsolete, but it never had any legal bearing, to wit:

"Sec. 3. This article shall be inoperative unless it shall have been ratified as an amendment to the Constitution by the legislatures of the several States, as provided in the Constitution, within seven years from the date of the submission hereof to the States by the Congress."

Pars. 97, 98. The proposed amendment, which was submitted by Congress to the States June 2, 1924, and which would have conferred upon Congress power "to limit, regulate and prohibit, the labor of persons under eighteen years of age", would, if it could have been ratified, have been subject to incorporation here, following the prohibition amendment, as a further "Police Regulation".

Par. 99. The proviso in this paragraph forbade also and for twenty years any amendment of the guaranty for the African slave-trade or of the rule that direct taxes should be in proportion to the population, including three-fifths of the slaves. This limitation, however, expired in 1808, and it has since been directly contravened by the 13th, 14th and 16th amendments. The portion of the proviso thus eliminated was:

"that no amendment which may be made prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and eight shall in any manner affect the first and fourth clauses in the ninth section of the first article; and"—

ARTICLE VI

The Federal SovereigntyTHE SUPREME LAW

(100) This Constitution, and the laws of the United States which shall be made in pursuance thereof, and all treaties made, or which shall be made, under the authority of the United States, shall be the supreme law of the land; and the judges in every State shall be bound thereby, anything in the constitution or laws of any State to the contrary notwithstanding.*

VI: 2.

(101) The Senators and Representatives before mentioned and the members of the several State legislatures, and all executive and judicial officers, both of the United States and of the several States, shall be bound by oath or affirmation to support this Constitution; but no religious test shall ever be required as a qualification to any office or public trust under the United States (VI: 3); and no person holding any office of profit or trust under them shall, without the consent of the Congress, accept of any present, emolument, office or title, of any kind whatever, from any king, prince or foreign state.* I: 9, 8.

(102) No person shall be a Senator or Representative in Congress, or elector of President and Vice President, or hold any office, civil or military, under the United States, or under any State, who, having previously taken an oath, as a member of Congress, or as an officer of the United States, or as a member of any State legislature, or as an executive or judicial officer of any State, to support the Constitution of the United States, shall have engaged in insurrection or rebellion against the same, or given aid or comfort to the enemies thereof. But

Par. 100. This assertion of the Federal supremacy was originally preceded in Article VI by a clause assuming the debts of the Confederation. Such matter, however, was strictly temporary, and the clause thus eliminated is:

"(1) All debts contracted and engagements entered into before the adoption of this Constitution shall be as valid against the United States under this Constitution as under the Confederation". VI: I.

Par. 101. As was explained in connection with Par. 56, the inhibition against the acceptance of foreign favors by Federal office-holders is transferred from that place to this place.

Congress may, by a vote of two-thirds of each House, remove such disability.*

Am. 14, 3.

PUBLIC DEBTS AND OTHER DEBTS

(103) The validity of the public debt of the United States, authorized by law, including debts incurred for payment of pensions and bounties for services in suppressing insurrection or rebellion, shall not be questioned. But neither the United States nor any State shall assume or pay any debt or obligation incurred in aid of insurrection or rebellion against the United States, or any claim for the loss or emancipation of any slave; but all such debts, obligations and claims shall be held illegal and void.*

Am. 14, 4.

RESERVED RIGHTS AND POWERS

(104) The enumeration in the Constitution of certain rights shall not be construed to deny or disparage others retained by the people.*

Am. 9.

(105) The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people.*

Am. 10.

(ARTICLE VII—See Final Note)

Par. 102. This 3rd section of the 14th amendment is more of the same subject of the supremacy of the Constitution and of the allegiance thereto that is due from federal office-holders.

Par. 103. This 4th section of the 14th amendment changes the subject from persons to finance; but it emphasizes further the theme of the "Federal Sovereignty".

This paragraph and the other clauses of the 14th amendment (Pars. 88, 57, 5, 102) are all supported in a way by the little enforcement clause of the 14th amendment, which clause is noted along with other similar clauses in connection with Par. 46.

Pars. 104, 105. These 9th and 10th amendments are the general qualifications upon the Federal sovereignty. They properly conclude the article in which that sovereignty is so generally declared. They are fairly to be regarded also as the last words of "THE CONSTITUTION AS IT IS".

FINAL NOTE—Article VII. The concluding article of the original Constitution very briefly stated:

"The ratification of the conventions of nine States shall be sufficient for the establishment of this Constitution between the States so ratifying the same".

The purpose hereof was served when New Hampshire had ratified as the ninth state in June, 1788, and there was nothing more to be done under it, when Rhode Island had come in as the last of the original thirteen states in May, 1790.

There would be nothing more of this subject, if South Carolina and other States had not, in 1860-61, claimed the right to reopen the subject and undertaken accordingly to withdraw their respective ratifications. However, in the Civil War that ensued it was practically decided that the right to secede does not exist,—in other words, that this Article VII is a closed incident.

There is still a way into the Union through the admission of new States; but there is no way out.

NEW HAMPSHIRE STATE GOVERNMENT.

The constitution divides the government into three branches. They are the executive branch, the legislative branch and the judicial branch. The executive department consists of the governor and council, the secretary of state, the deputy secretary of state, the treasurer, the commissary-general and such other officers as the legislature has established. The legislative branch consists of a senate and house of representatives. The judicial branch consists of a system of courts established by the legislature. The military establishment is part of the executive branch and the governor is commander-in-chief of the military establishment.

In addition to the several constitutional officers mentioned above, the legislature has, from time to time, arranged and organized new offices so that the government now includes the following departments:

- Governor.
- Executive council.
- Department of state.
- Treasury.
- Militia.
- Legislature.
- Judiciary.
- Bank commission.
- Public service commission.
- Insurance department.
- Fish and game department.
- Department of public instruction.
- Department of agriculture.
- Commission of pharmacy and practical chemistry.
- Tax commission.
- Department of health.
- Forestry department.
- Department of records.
- Dental board.
- Ballot law commission.
- Department of labor.
- Department of charities and corrections.
- Board of registration in medicine.
- Veterinary examining board.
- Department of law enforcement.
- Highway department.
- Optometry board.
- Department of institutions.
- Department of motor vehicles.
- Department of weights and measures.
- Examiners of embalmers.
- Examiners in chiropody.
- Chiropractic examining board.

In subsequent chapters will be given brief sketches of the histories of these departments in order given, together with a list of the men who have occupied the more important posts in the government from the time of earliest provincial days to the present. Colonial government began in 1680 and state government under the constitution began in 1784. The colonial period included about ninety-five years down to the revolution in 1775. The revolutionary period included about nine years to the constitution and the history of the state is now in its one hundred and forty-third year.

THE GOVERNOR.

The governor is the chief executive and his title is "his excellency." Provincial governors were appointed by the king of England and they had various titles such as "president," "lieutenant-governor," "deputy-governor" and "governor." For the first eighty years governors frequently did not reside in the province.

When the revolution broke out the royal governor withdrew, in 1775, and the province was ruled by a revolutionary convention headed by a president. The next year a temporary constitution provided for a president of a council and chairman of a committee of safety to be the chief executive. The constitution of 1784 provided for a president to be elected by popular vote and in 1792 the title was changed to governor. In 1913 the election of the governor was changed from the majority-vote system to the plurality-vote system. Previous to that the failure of a candidate to receive a majority vote threw the election into the legislature.

GUBERNATORIAL VOTES

(† Indicates election by the people, * by the legislature.)

Year.

1784 Meshech Weare unanimously elected "president."

(NOTE—There was no party alignment during the early years of the government. Followers of the national constitutional government, headed by John Sullivan and John T. Gilman were Federalists, and the opposition was known as the anti-Federalist party.)

Revolutionary Councilors, 1776-84.

Article 59 of the second part of the constitution provides for an executive council of five men to advise and act with the governor. Before the constitution there was a council both under the temporary constitution of the Revolution and under the provincial government. Since 1913 councilors have been elected by plurality vote to represent population but previously to that they were elected by majority vote to represent property, and in the colonial days they were appointed.

The following is a complete list of all the councilors since the Revolution giving the name of each and the year in which he was elected or appointed.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE.

Articles 66, 67 and 68 of the second part of the constitution provide for a department of state with a secretary of state who is elected biennially by the legislature and a deputy secretary of state appointed by the secretary. In the colonial period there was a secretary appointed by the chief executive, but no deputy. During the revolutionary period and under the constitution of 1784 the secretary was chosen by the legislature and given authority to have several deputies, but in 1793 the constitution was changed to provide for a single deputy.

The following is a list of the forty-one secretaries of state from the beginning, together with the term which each served and a list of the thirty-eight deputy secretaries.

THE TREASURY.

Article 66 of the second part of the constitution provides for a treasurer who is elected biennially by the legislature. In the colonial period the treasurer was appointed by the chief executive and frequently the same man was secretary of the province and treasurer. In 1891 the legislature created the office of deputy treasurer.

The following is a list of the thirty treasurers from the beginning and the term of office each served. A list of the deputy treasurers is also given with the residence and term served by each.

THE MILITIA.

The constitution vests all military authority in the governor, who is by virtue of his office commander-in-chief of the militia or national guard. He appoints an adjutant-general as his chief of staff and active head of the military establishment, and the office carries with it the rank of brigadier-general. The following is a list of the adjutant-generals from the beginning, together with their places of residence and the term of service of each.

THE LEGISLATURE.

Part second of the constitution provides for a legislature to be known as the "general court," to consist of a senate and house of representatives. Before the constitution was made there was a legislature, before the legislature a colonial house of representatives, and before that a provincial congress or convention.

Up to 1927 there have been, counting the colonial legislatures, just two hundred and one sessions of the New Hampshire legislature. These have taken place at intervals of not more than two years between any two sessions during a period of one hundred and forty years. The following list gives the date when each session began, the date it adjourned, the number of days it lasted and the place it met in.

*Special Session

THE SENATE.

The senate began under the constitution and first met in 1784. There were at first twelve senators who represented the five counties that then existed, five senators from Rockingham county, two from Strafford, two from Hillsborough, two from Cheshire, and one from Grafton. In 1793 senatorial districts were created to take the place of county representation and each district elected one senator. The elections during the early years took place in March and the legislature met in June annually.

The senatorial districting of 1793 was changed over in 1803 and several times subsequently. In 1878 the senate was doubled in size. In 1915 the senators were elected by plurality instead of majority vote. The following is a complete list of the senators from the beginning, showing the name and residence of each member of each senate, arranged in the order of districts from 1793, when the districts were created, and previous to that year, in the order of counties.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

The house of representatives is the popular branch of the legislature, representing the cities and towns. Its size has varied from year to year, being a small assembly in the colonial days and gradually expanding until now it is the largest body in any state legislature in the country. The following table shows the number of members returned to the legislature at each session since the Constitution went into effect.

THE JUDICIARY

The Constitution in article 4, part 2, gives the legislature full authority to establish courts. There is a supreme court and a superior court, each with a chief and four associate justices; a probate court in each county, with a probate judge and municipal police courts in the cities and most of the towns.

Previous to the Revolution there was a superior court of judicature for the province, which sat from 1693 to 1776, eighty-three years. This was succeeded by the superior court of judicature, which sat from 1776 to 1813, thirty-seven years. The supreme judicial court took its place in 1813 and lasted three years, until 1816. Then the superior court of judicature was re-established and sat until 1855, thirty-nine years. This was succeeded in 1855 by the supreme judicial court, which lasted until 1874, nineteen years. Then the superior court of judicature was restored for two years, to be succeeded in 1876 by the supreme court, which has since, during a period of forty years, been the highest court in the state.

The superior court was first known as the court of common pleas, which was established in 1813 with two circuits, eastern and western. In 1816 the circuits were abolished and two districts were established, and in 1820 these were merged into the court of sessions. In 1824 the court of common pleas was re-established to sit, until in 1833, after an existence of nine years, the court went out of existence. In 1842 the circuit court was re-established without any circuits or districts, and it sat for seven years, until 1849, when it was abolished. In 1851 it was again re-established and was reorganized in 1855 and abolished in 1859. It was once more re-established in 1874 and lasted two years. In 1901, after a lapse of twenty-five years, a secondary court was established under the name of superior court, which has been since maintained.

The following is a list of the chief justices of the supreme court under its various names and organizations from the beginning, with the residence and term of service of each chief justice. All judges under the Constitution are appointed by the governor and council and hold office until they are seventy years of age.

LAW DEPARTMENT

The attorney-general is head of the law department and the prosecuting officer and legal adviser of the state. The office is provided for in the Constitution, and the attorney-general is appointed by the governor and council. Before the constitution there was an attorney-general appointed by the governor. In 1915 the office of assistant attorney-general was created and the department of inheritance tax collection is in the charge of the assistant. The following is a list of the attorney-generals from the beginning, with the term served by each.

BANK COMMISSIONERS

The first act relating to the bank commissioners was passed in 1837, and it was approved July 5th by Isaac Hill, governor. It provided for the appointment of three commissioners for a term of one year each. Prior to 1837, such examination of the banks of the state as was made, was performed by committees of the legislature. As early as 1814, the banks were required to make returns of their condition to the governor and council, who submitted the same to the legislature. How soon thereafter the legislature appointed a committee to visit the banks and make examination of their condition, is not clear; but the act of June 29, 1821, specified,—

“That all committees provided by the legislature for the purpose of examining into the state and condition of any banking corporation in this state shall be paid a reasonable compensation.”

This provision of law is found in the compilation of laws made in 1830, and the practice of having the banks examined by committees of the legislature probably continued until the creation of the bank commission in 1837.

The work of these legislative committees and of the bank commissioners was confined to banks of issue and discount until 1841, when the commissioners were directed by the legislature to make examinations of the savings banks of the state. There were, however, only eight savings banks in New Hampshire at that time, and their total deposits were less than one million dollars.

The terms of the commissioners continued to be of one year each until 1881, when the number was reduced from three to two and the terms made two years each. In 1889, the law was amended and a board of three commissioners was created with terms of three years each, the terms being so arranged that one expired each year. The board of commissioners continued until it was abolished in 1913 and one commissioner and a deputy provided by the legislature. In 1915, a board of three commissioners was restored, with one commissioner designated as chairman; and the terms were extended to six years, with one expiring every two years. The legislature, in 1925, again abolished the commission and established the offices of bank commissioner and deputy bank commissioner, each with a term of six years, and authorized the commissioner to employ two examiners and two accountants, in addition to the clerical force of the office.

Until 1881 the commissioners were paid for their examinations by the banks at the rate, at first, of two dollars per day and ten cents a mile for travel. Subsequently the per diem was increased to three dollars, and in 1885 to five dollars. Salaries were first established in 1889.

PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION

The public service commission was formerly known as the railroad commission, and was created by the legislature eighty-two years ago, in 1844. Previous to that there had been a regulation of railroads by the state and as early as 1838 a law was passed authorizing the governor and council to appoint three commissioners in each county. The first state commission, however, was named in 1844, and in 1855 election by popular vote was substituted for appointment. In 1883 election was abolished and appointment restored. In 1911 the name was changed to public service commission and the powers and duties of the board enlarged. Previous to 1911 commissioners were appointed or elected one at a time for three-year terms, but since that year the term has been six years. Special commissioners have served from time to time, but were not regarded as members of the state board and are not listed below in the following list of commissioners from the beginning, with the residence of each and term served.

DEPARTMENT OF INSTITUTIONS

The department of institutions was created in 1913 and reorganized in 1915, and included the government of five institutions, the prison, hospital, sanatorium for consumptives, industrial school and school for feeble-minded children. Ten trustees were appointed by the governor and council, two each year for five-year terms. The trustees employed a purchasing agent who did the buying for all the state departments and such institutions as requested the privilege. From 1913 to 1915 the department was governed by a board of control.

In 1917 there was created a board of trustees of state institutions for the management of the above institutions, the making of repairs of all state buildings except the state house and the buildings of the University of New Hampshire and for the purchase of supplies for all institutions and departments except the University. This board of trustees consisted of five members appointed by the governor and council for five-year terms. In 1919 the law was again amended placing the ultimate authority over and supervision of the institutions and departments in the governor and council who were authorized to appoint seven trustees for each institution consisting of five appointed members for five-year terms and two ex officio members. The purchasing agent was appointed by the trustees until 1919 when the governor and council were authorized to appoint one for a three-year term. The following is a list of the members of the board of control and the trustees who succeeded it, with the residence of each and the term served, also the list of purchasing agents.

THE HOSPITAL

The first legislative act to provide personal care for the insane was passed in 1822, providing that any insane person who had committed a crime and was not guilty by reason of insanity, and who would be dangerous to be at large, should be committed by court to prison until restored or discharged by due process of law. Soon after this, agitation throughout the state developed for some better method of care and treatment of the insane. Newspapers enlisted in the cause. In 1836 the legislature passed an act requesting the governor to issue a precept to the selectmen of the towns "to take the sense of the qualified voters on the following question: Is it expedient for the state to grant an appropriation to build an insane hospital?" So successful was this appeal that not only were private funds raised, but in 1838 an act of incorporation was passed, entitled, "An Act to incorporate 'The New Hampshire Asylum for the Insane.'"

The management of the institution was at first semi-private and public, and was vested in a board of trustees, represented in part by the donors and in part by appointees selected by the governor and council, under an act of the legislature of 1839. In the following year, 1840, the legislature repealed the act providing for mutual representation of the donors and the state on the board of trustees, and providing that all trustees should be appointed by the state. With this act of legislation of 1840 the erection of an asylum for the insane was assured, and the trustees, with the assistance of state and private aid, began the erection of an institution at Concord, which was opened in 1843.

The early construction of the hospital was after the plan of the solid or block type of building. In the case of the asylum there was an administration center, with wings extending from either side. Additional wings have from time to time been added to the original unit, as the exigencies demanded. Modern construction calls for the erection of detached groups of buildings, and in 1882 the first detached building was erected for the care of convalescent, appreciative and intelligent women patients, and is known as the Bancroft building.

From this latter date various events in the history of the hospital have followed each other in rapid sequence, as the following chronological happenings indicate:

|--|------|
| Training School for Nurses | 1888 |
| Walker Cottage at Lake Penacook | 1892 |
| Workshop for Men | 1892 |
| Twitchell House | 1895 |

THE PRISON

The old prison was built in 1812 and the present prison in 1880, and is governed by a warden appointed by the trustees of institutions. From 1913 to 1915 the prison was under the board of control, which was abolished. Previous to 1913 there was usually a board of prison trustees, who acted under the governor and council and by their appointment.

The following is a list of the wardens since the prison was built, with the term served by each.

INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL

The industrial school at Manchester was established by the legislature in 1855 and opened in 1858. Its original name was the house of reformation for juvenile and female offenders and was conducted along the lines of a penal institution. It was situated on part of the homestead of General John Stark of the Revolutionary army. In 1881 the name was changed to the industrial school and the policy of its management was changed from that of a penal to that of an educational reformatory. During the last ten years the cottage system of housing the inmates has been carried out, and the present value of the property is over $250,000.

The management of the institution was at first vested in a board of trustees appointed by the governor and council. In 1913 the trustees were succeeded by the board of control, and this board was in turn succeeded in 1915 by the trustees of state institutions.

The following is a list of the superintendents of the school from the beginning, with the term served by each.

SANATORIUM FOR CONSUMPTIVES

The sanatorium for consumptives, officially known as the New Hampshire state sanatorium, is at Glencliff, on the southern slope of Mount Mossilauke in the White Mountains. It was established by the legislature in 1907 and opened in 1909. Its establishment resulted from the recommendation of a commission which was authorized by the legislature in 1901 and which consisted of Dr. Ezra Mitchell of Lancaster, Dr. Nathaniel G. Brooks of Charlestown and Dr. Irving A. Watson of Concord, secretary of the board of health.

The commission made its report and recommendation in 1902, and five years later the legislature established the sanatorium. It is 1,650 feet above the sea and it enjoys an average of 170 perfectly clear days every year. In 1909 the two wards, one for men and one for women, were opened; in 1912 they were enlarged and a service building was added; and in 1913 and 1914 a barn, piggery, refrigerating plant, coal pocket and shack were added.

The sanatorium has a capacity of over one hundred patients now and there are 411 acres of land. The value of the property is nearly $150,000, and its management is vested with the board of trustees. The following is a list of the superintendents of the sanatorium from the beginning, with the name of the sanatorium from which each came to Glencliff and the term served.

LACONIA STATE SCHOOL

The school for feeble-minded was created by the legislature in 1901. Previous to that the feeble-minded children were supported by the state at the Massachusetts School for Feeble-Minded at Waverly, Mass. The New Hampshire school was established at Laconia, and its government vested in a board of trustees, consisting of the governor and five others appointed by the governor and council. In 1913 the trustees were abolished and the institution placed under the board of control. In 1915 this board was abolished and the institution placed under the trustees of state institutions and two members, Rev. John J. Brophy of Concord and William H. Moses of Tilton, were designated to look after this institution especially.

The school is situated on the slope of a ridge, two miles from the railroad and the city. It is bounded by the Belknap county farm on the south, Lake Opechee on the east and Lake Winnisquam on the west. The school was opened in 1903, and the following year its only brick dormitory was burned. The school was rapidly rebuilt and has expanded since then.

While the school has grown steadily by new construction and the acquirement of land, the social, ethical and educational side shows equal development. Suitable social amusement and entertainment, with varied healthful occupations, such as approved by Seguin, Montessori and Dr. Fernald, are provided. The children are taught folk and other dancing, games, drills, music, basketry, knitting, weaving and the usual mental school work as far as each one is able to progress. Manual training, cobbling and the domestic sciences are also taken up. As all the vegetables, as well as the milk, for the entire school are raised on the grounds, the boys are given valuable instruction in gardening, farming and the care of the stock. The legislature of 1925 changed the name of the institution from "School for Feeble-Minded" to "Laconia State School."

The age of admission, by application and physician's certificate, is from three to twenty-one years, but women up to the age of forty-five may be committed by probate court.

The following is a list of superintendents of the school from its establishment, with the term served by each:

UNIVERSITY OF NEW HAMPSHIRE

New Hampshire college was founded in 1866 and is known as New Hampshire College of Agriculture and the Mechanic Arts. It was situated at Hanover and connected with Dartmouth college, both having the same president, for twenty-six years. The legislature of 1885 took steps to move the college, on the ground that it had graduated "less than forty agricultural students" in twenty years. In 1892 the college was removed to Durham.

Government of the college is vested in a board of trustees, consisting of the governor, the president of the college, two members elected by the alumni and nine appointed by the governor and council, making thirteen in all. The nine appointive members must include one from each councilor district and seven practical farmers, and not more than five shall be of one political party. The term of office is three years.

THE LIBRARY

The library was established in 1823, when all the books that had been accumulating for years in the state house were deposited in the department of state, and for forty-two years the secretary of state was librarian also. In 1865 the legislature officially established the library as a separate institution, and a board of library trustees was created the following year. It consists of three men, one appointed each year by the governor and council for a term of three years. The board appoints a librarian, who serves at the pleasure of the trustees and is the active head of the library. In 1891 the legislature created a library commission, consisting of the librarian and four others, and the commission was consolidated with the trustees in 1901. In 1913 a legislative reference bureau was created by the legislature and is a part of the library. The board was reorganized in 1917.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, 1789-1927

Under the constitutional apportionment which provided for a house of representatives in congress, New Hampshire was allotted three seats. The national census of 1790 (first census) increased this to four, the second census of 1800 to five and the third census of 1810 to six seats. The census of 1830 reduced it to five, that of 1840 to four and that of 1850 to three. The census of 1870 reduced it to two, but the seat taken away was restored until the next census of 1880, since when the state has had two representatives.

Republican Organization

The Republican state convention met at Concord, Tuesday, September 21, 1926, with Dr. Zatae L. Straw, member of the legislature from Manchester, as president. The following platform was adopted:

G. O. P. PLATFORM

The Republican party of New Hampshire assembled in convention rejoices in the record of constructive achievement being written in both national and state affairs by successive Republican administrations. Called to the difficult task of reorganizing the country for peace after one of the most costly and devastating wars in all history, the Republican party has given renewed evidence of its genius for administration and its competence for civic management.

Under the superb leadership of President Coolidge a wise and effective economy has replaced the waste and extravagance which characterized the Democratic management of national affairs. Domestic industry and the American standard of wages and living conditions for American workmen have been protected and fostered under a Republican tariff law, which has brought to the country unparalleled prosperity. Never before have there been such numbers employed in industry. Never has the present level of wages of men employed in industry in time of peace been equalled.

Farmers Prosperous

In agriculture there has been on the part of Republican leadership a firm refusal to embark in unsound economic ventures to aid the farmer, but every possible government aid has been extended to the agricultural interests in their task of reorganization to meet new conditions. Despite the complaints of the professional agitator seeking to politically capitalize rural discontent, the farm business of the country, as a whole, is prosperous, and is making long strides toward more efficient organization of its producing and marketing machinery.

In fiscal affairs the record for the Coolidge administrations stand as the unmatched achievement of skill, statesmanlike financial competence. The huge public debt which was inheritance from war and waste, has been reduced by more than five billion dollars and this reduction is steadily and swiftly proceeding. Under a prudent, careful administration of public affairs, the heavy burden bearing down on the shoulders of the tax payer has repeatedly been lightened, and sound principles of taxation have triumphed over partisanship in distributing the tax burden.

Better World Understanding

Under Republican leadership, competition in naval armament was halted by the Washington conference. The gains for world peace thus secured the president is now seeking to consolidate and enlarge by co-operating with the great powers in a new attempt to set a limit to land force. Always the power and the influence of the United States, under Republican direction, has been employed to promote better world understanding, to inculcate a true devotion to peace and to foster international square-dealing. Carefully avoiding entanglements in exclusively European concerns, the American nation is eager to lend its aid to every sound project that would substitute the conference room for the battlefields; the rule of reason for the rule of force.

To Calvin Coolidge the Republican party of New Hampshire extends felicitations and to his administration we pledge anew our enthusiastic and united support.

In state affairs, the long established Republican policy of living within income has been faithfully maintained. Legislative appropriations have not been overdrawn, and in many departments a surplus has been turned back into the treasury. The various state institutions have been capably managed, and those whose care, infirmities of mind, body or character, have thrust upon the state, have been treated with intelligent consideration. To them, and those others, whose welfare is of direct concern to the state, we pledge our sympathetic attention.

The policy of publicity for this state's resources, agricultural, recreational, industrial, has been given effect by legislation. A countrywide campaign of advertising, supplemented by numerous private activities designed to attract attention to New Hampshire's exceptional advantages, as an agricultural community, as a summer resort, and as an industrial region, has borne gratifying fruit. The Republican party pledges anew its support of this program and recommends continued appropriations by the legislature for this purpose.

It was under Republican auspices that our modern state system of highways was established. This wise policy has abundantly justified itself. The further extension of this system and its careful maintenance is unhesitatingly recommended. The generous support which preceding legislatures have given the state highway department, we endorse. With the swift expansion of highway traffic, and steadily mounting cost of road upkeep, however, a problem acute in nature is presented, which must be met. Our smaller towns are heavily burdened in carrying their share of state highway maintenance. We recommend that the next legislature make a careful examination of the sources of income for road maintenance with a view to the further relief of the towns and cities from the burden of state trunk lines maintenance. We also favor the further improvement of rural roads.

New Hampshire takes great pride in its schools and the Republican party which gave the state its present effective and efficient educational system glories in the achievements in popular education which are the fruits of that legislation. We unhesitatingly endorse its policy of liberality with respect to our schools, and promise its continuance.

Dry Law Upheld

Before the National prohibitory law was enacted, a Republican legislature in New Hampshire had declared the traffic in intoxicants should be illegal. Under both state and national legislation New Hampshire has faithfully upheld the law and left nothing undone which would aid in the suppression of illegal traffic in intoxicating liquor. The policy of rigorous and rigid law enforcement, particularly with reference to the federal and state prohibitory laws, we heartily approve, and we pledge its continuance. We favor no modification of these laws, but rather their further strengthening by every possible constitutional method.

We view with regret and alarm the swift depreciation in our timber resources. We recognize in the nearly two million acres of waste land suitable for reforestation an unrealized asset of the greatest importance. We favor a state policy of generous support of reforestation on our cut-over and waste land by private ownership, which should be encouraged in every available constitutional way that may offer. Protection against the hazard of fire in forest areas should be extended and liberally supported out of the public treasury.

The Republican party is vigorously opposed to any curtailment of railroad service to the detriment of the state and pledges its militant defense of the state's true welfare in this particular.

Direct Primary Evil

The direct primary was devised to cure certain evils of the old caucus and convention system, but has itself produced recent evils that are a nation-wide scandal.

Republican principles forbid the idea that candidates for nomination to public office shall contend in terms of lavish expenditure and that honorable citizens who cannot afford the increasing cost of primary campaigns shall be either placed under special obligation to their sources of supply or debarred from offering themselves for public service.

We recommend to the next legislature a careful examination of the conditions affecting nominations with a view to legislation that shall confirm and safeguard the constitutional rights of American citizens to elect or be elected to office.

We do not, however, favor return to the old caucus and convention law.

We recommend also a searching scrutiny of the corrupt practices of law, with a view to such changes as will insure complete publicity for all expenditures of every character made for the purpose of influencing the nomination, or election, of public officials.

The solution of the problem of taxations has become increasingly urgent. Under our present system, the farmer and householder are unduly burdened, while the existing combination of tangible property taxes falls so heavily on our manufacturing industries in times of depression as seriously to handicap them in competition with other states. The difficulties, constitutional and other, in the way of a happy solution are many, but we pledge ourselves to an earnest, intelligent and unselfish effort to bring about an enlightened system of taxation in harmony with the times, and so designed as to place the burden equitably and in a manner best calculated to promote the general welfare.

New Hampshire has been highly honored by the selection of one of its Senators as President pro tempore of the United States Senate. It has emphasized the pride which it feels in leadership in national affairs, thus signally recognized, by re-nominating that Senator for election as his own successor. For his unremitting industry, for his zeal in the public service, for the brilliance and courage which have characterized his work in Washington, the Republican party and the State of New Hampshire owes much. It will discharge, in part, that obligation by sending George H. Moses back to Washington with fresh credentials authorized by an overwhelming majority of its voters.

Spaulding Praised

The duties of the Governorship call for an administrative and business capacity of a high order. The Republican party responds to that need by offering as its candidate one of the conspicuously able and successful business men of the state. But he is by no means exclusively a business man. As a public servant he has rendered great service to the commonwealth. That it has always been an unpaid service adds to its rare value. Keen in his sympathies, instant in his response to every worthy appeal, shrewd in his judgments, and trained in affairs, Huntley N. Spaulding, as the standard bearer of the Republican cause in the approaching election, will lead on to victory.

In the critically important work of the House of Representatives at Washington, New Hampshire is capably and worthily represented by Congressman Edward H. Wason, a veteran of many years' service, and Congressman Fletcher Hale who is completing a first term characterized by deserved recognition on the part of his colleagues of his exceptional qualifications as a legislator. Both renominated by their constituents unanimously they will go back to their duties, assured by the proportions of their victory in November, that the state appreciates and puts a high value on their labors.

G. O. P. Party Pledge

The Republican Party was born of a great crisis more than seventy years ago. For nearly a half century of the intervening period it has administered the affairs of the nation. In that time the United States has grown from an obscure and isolated nation, divided within, and disdained without, into the greatest, the most powerful, the most wealthy and the most prosperous land the world has ever known. It has been under the direction of the Republican party that this phenomenal advance has been made.

Never has the Republican party met more difficult problems, and solved them more triumphantly than in the past six years of reconstruction. It is a marvelous record, eloquent of statesmanship and clear-visioned patriotism. The people of the neighboring state of Maine have just given fresh evidence of their confidence in Republican administration. In November the rest of the country will overwhelmingly register the same measure of approval. In the host of states that will carry the banner of Republicanism to victory in November, New Hampshire will be a leader; and it is to this task that we, Republicans, on behalf of the Republican party of the old Granite State, dedicate ourselves and pledge our earnest endeavor.

DEMOCRAT ORGANIZATION

The Democratic state convention met at Concord, Wednesday, September 29, 1926, with Hon. William N. Rogers, former Congressman, as chairman. The following platform was adopted:

DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM, 1926

Believing that Democratic success in the November election will best serve the interests of the great majority of the people of our State and Nation, and especially of those who toil, the Democratic party promises to promote, in the interests of all the people, those great Democratic principles of equality, honesty, justice and service.

We stand, first of all, for absolute honesty in government. Believing that the expenditures of large sums of money to secure office, whether in the primaries or in an election, is contrary to all decency and honor, and constituted a most serious menace to the perpetuity of our institutions, we unequivocally condemn the wholesale corruption in the expenditure of such money by members of the Republican party in recent years.

We direct attention of all self-respecting voters to the startling contrast between the honesty of the Democratic administration of Woodrow Wilson and the Republican administration that succeeded it. The conspicuous crookedness of Republican Secretary of the Interior Fall, Republican Attorney General Daugherty and many lesser lights of the Republican party, is still fresh in the public mind.

Under the leadership of Woodrow Wilson, the Democratic party again made a noteworthy record for honesty as well as for efficiency. Although thousands of dollars of the taxpayers' money were spent by the Republican party for committee investigations in a partisan attempt to besmirch the wonderful record of the Democratic party in the conduct of the war, the attempt failed miserably and no corruption was revealed.

It is indeed a far cry from Lincoln to Moses, and to those fair-minded members of the Republican party who are Americans before they are partisans, we express the wish that they allow their consciences, rather than their partisan prejudices, to determine their action on election day.

As to the reality of that alleged "prosperity" so ardently referred to in all Republican platforms, we are content to refer this to each individual voter for analysis, in the light of his or her own experience and common sense.

It is with special satisfaction and pride that we refer to the administration of affairs in New Hampshire by our recent Democratic Governor, Fred H. Brown, an administration noted for its honesty.

The Democratic party has always stood for absolute justice to all, to the poor as well as to the rich. While recognizing fully the just rights of Capital, it has always given a sympathetic ear to the appeals of those who toil, whether in the factories or on the farms. It believes that the laborer is a fellow brother, with all the ambitions, with all the longings for himself and his family that are common to humanity. It believes that the laborer is entitled, not only to exist; he is entitled to live: And he is entitled, also, to some share in those things that make for happiness and contentment. During the administration of Woodrow Wilson, the Democratic party placed upon the statute books more progressive legislation in the interests of both the farmer and the laborer than had been previously enacted by the Republican party in half a century. The laborer can safely leave his interests in the hands of the party that has always been his friend.

AGRICULTURE

We condemn the Republican party for ignoring the farmers. In spite of its oft repeated promises, the Republican party has failed to act and still seeks by honeyed words and more promises to delay the relief so long needed.

We affirm and endorse the recent report of the New Hampshire Council, particularly those sections dealing with the advancement of agriculture and forestry, and pledge the Democratic members of the next Legislature to its support.

We believe that free scholarships should be provided in the two-year course in agriculture at the University of New Hampshire, to all students who desire to take such course and who are residents of the State.

We demand that the present government water power development at Muscle Shoals be put immediately to the manufacture of fertilizer for the benefit of the farms of the State and Nation.

We commend the stand of the farmers of the state on this issue.

We commend the progress already made in eradicating bovine tuberculosis and advocate the continuance of the work.

TAXATION

Relief from the present burdensome taxes is one of the most pressing needs of the day. As the matter of taxation is primarily one of expenditure, we insist on the utmost economy in the administration of public affairs. We believe that the tax laws of the State should be reformed so as to give reasonable consideration to the capacity of groups of communities to bear taxation burdens, and that in laying taxation, primary consideration be given, not to the need, but to the capacity of the people to meet proposed projects, without creating an undue burden, which in many instances is tending to increase rural emigration from the state.

We favor the strict enforcement of all laws, including the eighteenth amendment to the United States Constitution, and hold the Republican party, which is in full control of enforcement, responsible for failure to enforce the latter.

LABOR

We reaffirm our position in favoring the enactment of the 48-hour law for women and children in manufacturing industries.

We favor amendment of the present workman's compensation law to provide for an increase of the present inadequate compensation rates.

PRIMARY

We hold public office to be a public and sacred trust and severely condemn the purchase of the same and point with pride to the fact that this practice has been confined to the Republican party. We believe that the Direct Primary is the best method of choosing public officials and that those who would repeal this law would do so to avoid the publicity that now attaches to their corruption. We advocate a strict limiting of the total amount that can be spent in the interest of any candidate by any persons or organizations, to a sum that will reasonably allow him to present his candidacy to his party, and the imposition of a drastic penalty for any violation of such law.

RAILROADS

We recognize the vital need of an adequate railroad system in the State and pledge ourselves to constructive legislation to that end. We oppose the unjustified abandonment of railroad lines in the state.

We favor the abolition of the poll tax on women.

We favor the abolition of all toll bridges throughout the state.

We pledge our best efforts in behalf of the interests of our beloved state, and in furtherance thereof, our unqualified support of our candidates, Eaton D. Sargent for Governor, Robert C. Murchie for Senator, F. Clyde Keefe and George H. Duncan for Congressmen, and the rest of the Democratic ticket.
